Building a Summer Reading List – 10th Grade

You know your student the best, so the following talking points are simply a guideline to use in starting a conversation with your 10th grader about how reading during the summer prevents the 'summer slump.'

- ▶ Let's set a goal for how much you will read this summer and find some books we can read together.
- ▶ Let's research what movies are based upon a book so we can read the book first and then watch the movie to see how they compare.
- ▶ Will you go to the library with me so you can get some ideas for your reading list?
- ▶ There is a really comfortable spot in the _____ (name a room in your house). What if we designate that the reading zone and make it a quiet area?
